

Camp Grafton to host dedication and open house

WHAT:

- Regional Training Institute Building Dedication
- Camp Grafton Open House

WHEN:

- Saturday, Aug 7
- 10:30 a.m. RTI Building Dedication
 - 11:30 a.m. – 4 p.m. Camp Grafton Training Center Open House

WHO:

This event is open to the general public.

TRANSPORTATION:

- Tractors with people movers for those who would like to ride. The complete loop to designated building will take approximately 20 minutes.
- Those wanting to drive directly to the designated buildings are welcomed to do so.

Devils Lake, N.D. - After two years of construction, the 164th Regiment Regional Training Institute (RTI) at the Camp Grafton Training Center will host a building dedication of a new $30.5 million facility - the first of a two-phased project.

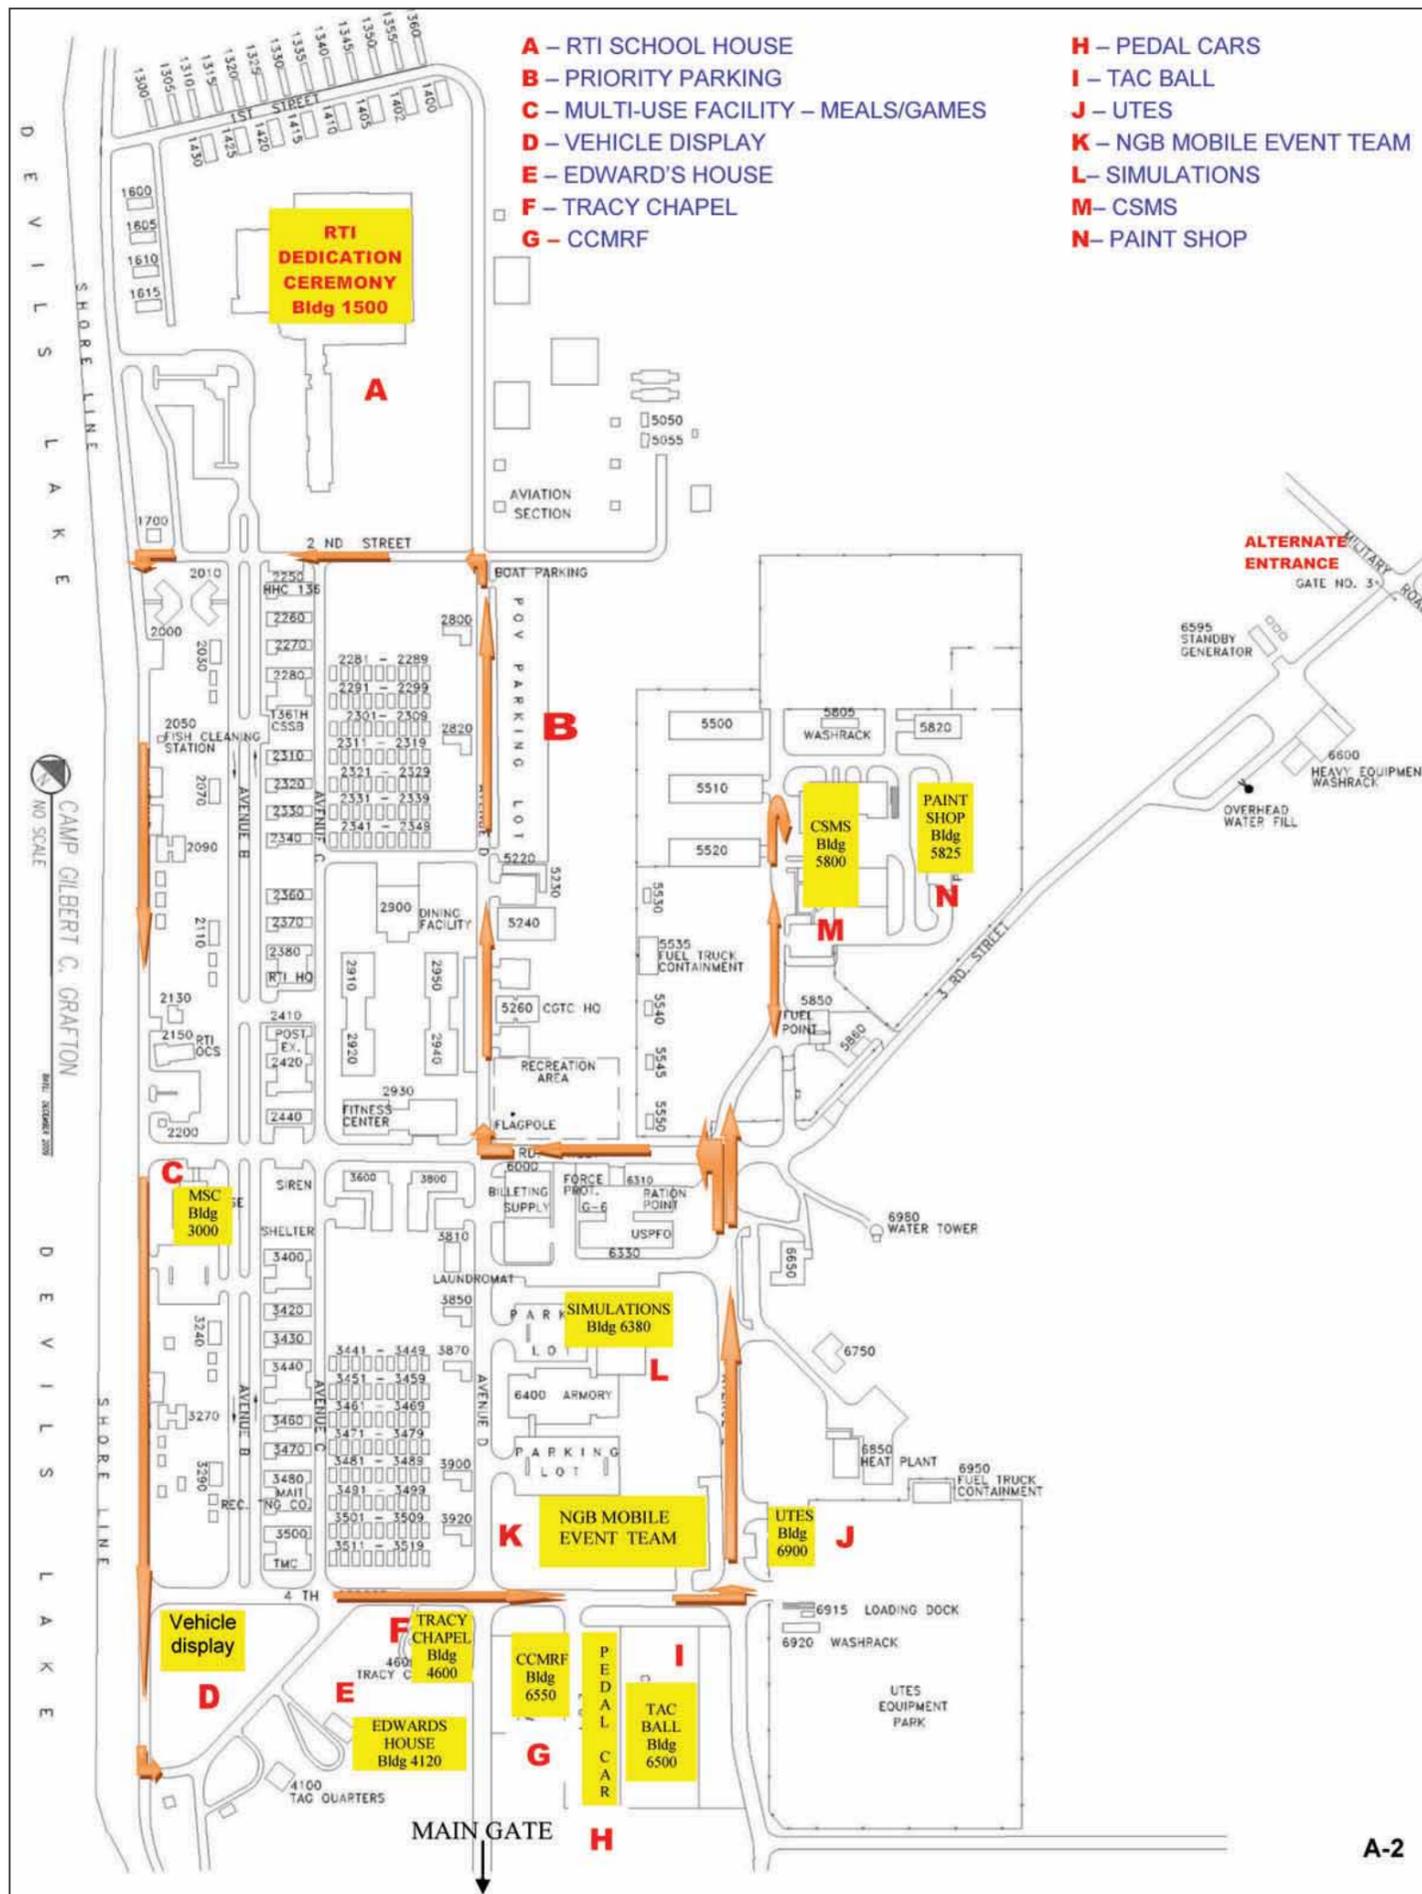

The dedication and open house are open for public attendance.

The expansion of the RTI is part of a five-year strategic plan to increase the force structure of the North Dakota National Guard and enhance the skills and preparedness of Guard members, Gov. John Hoeven said.

The new building contains nearly 183,000 square feet and includes administration facilities, education facilities, a vertical construction lab and the first of three billeting wings with 60 rooms in phase I.

Phase II, budgeted at $20 million, is scheduled to begin in fiscal year 2017. This phase will add 68,179 square feet and two additional billeting wings. When complete, the building will include 216 rooms.

“This new facility will help the RTI to grow and keep pace with the increased demand for professional military engineer training,” said Maj. Gen. David Sprynczynatyk, North Dakota National Guard adjutant general.

The RTI provides 25 fully-accredited engineer courses each year. More than 200 classes will be provided this fiscal year.

The Institute’s reach spans far beyond North

Dakota’s borders, with 60 percent of all Army Reserve and Army National Guard engineers across the United States receiving training there.

There will be a number of family activities during the open house to include a pedal car, military vehicle display, Tac Ball and military simulators.

It pays to shop the Minot exchange

The Exchange benefit at Minot AFB is paying dividends in more ways than one.

Airmen shopping at the BX, dining at the Food Court or Burger King and using other AAFES activities last year generated a dividend of $ 424,813.

These funds are critical to Air Force Services ability to enhance local programs and facilities including the Minot AFB Community Center, Bowling Alley, and Golf Course.

“AAFES’ dual mission is to provide goods and services at competitively low prices and generate earnings to support Services programs,” said the Minot BX Main Store Manager Candace Ford. “As a result, the dollars that troops and their families spend in AAFES facilities generates a healthy return on their investment by directly improving quality of life services.”

The dual benefit AAFES provides military families goes far beyond the clothes, electronics or consumables available at the Exchange.

In fact, purchases made in the past 10 years have provided more than $2.4 billion to military Services programs such as Youth Services, post functions and aquatic centers.

Historically, roughly two-thirds of AAFES earnings are paid to MWR programs. In addition to funding quality of life efforts, AAFES earnings are used to build new stores or renovate existing facilities without expense to the Federal government. Funds to contract these new or replacement facilities also come entirely from sales of merchandise and services.

The Army & Air Force Exchange Service is a joint command and is directed by a Board of Directors which is responsible to the Secretaries of the Army and the Air Force through the Service Chiefs of Staff. AAFES has the dual mission of providing authorized patrons with articles of merchandise and services and generating non-appropriated fund earnings as a supplemental source of funding for military Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) programs. To find out more about AAFES’ history and mission or to view recent press releases please visit our Web site at <http://www.aafes.com/pa/default.asp>.
